

College Credit Plus at Field High School

WHY TAKE KSU ENGLISH COURSES AT FIELD HIGH SCHOOL?

1

FLEXIBLE

- Able to adjust due dates and offer assignment extensions
- Classmates and instructor readily available for group projects and additional assistance

CONVENIENT

- No extra travel time or expense
- No parking hassles or riding the bus to class
- Courses offered throughout the day

2

3

CONNECTED

- Maintain a link to your school and your friends
- Participate readily in extra-curricular activities
- Stay “in the loop” with current events and conversations

PERSONAL

- Individual attention to your learning needs with teaching methods that favor students
- Each student is a valued member of the class community

4

5

PROFESSIONAL

- Experienced state and National Board Certified instructor, not graduate students fulfilling their own program requirements

LEGITIMATE

- The courses are taught from the same syllabi as the on-campus versions
- Requirements abide by those of the state and the university's English department

6

7

EFFICIENT

- College Writing I and II required for every degree program
- Courses easily transferrable as a part of the OTM

Course Offerings

11011 College Writing I

College Writing I is a Kent Core course designed to bridge the gap from high school writing to college writing. Writing is a rhetorical process focused on effective communication with the intended audience. This section of CWI focuses on argumentative writing and facilitates an enhancement of critical thinking. We will explore what it means to write effectively and work towards this in production.

21011 College Writing II

College Writing II satisfies a Kent Core requirement. The Kent Core as a whole is intended to broaden intellectual perspectives and prepare students for responsible citizenship and productive careers. This course focuses on analysis, research, and synthesis of information to create a new understanding of real-world problems.

22073 Major Modern Writers: British and United States

Major Modern Writers is a literature course that also satisfies a Kent Core requirement. Students will cultivate an understanding of British and American literature in its historical and cultural context of the Modern era, focusing on the aesthetic goals and literary methods of modernist and postmodernist literature. Throughout the course, students will further craft their skills in critical reading and writing.

*All courses conform to the Ohio Transfer Model, recognized by the state of Ohio as transferable to any public institution of higher education.